

Guidelines for Classifying International and National Journals

The Academic Review and Rank Assessment Committee (ARRAC) approved the revised guideline for classifying international and national journals in the fields of science and technology, and social sciences for satisfying the publication requirements for graduation and academic rank promotion, effective June 1, 2014:

1. International Journals in Citation Index (weight = 1.0)

1.1 International journals are indexed in ISI Journal Citation Reports (JCR).

1.2 International journals are in ISI databases, which can be viewed from Thomson Reuters's Master Journal List, including the following indexes:

Science Citation Index Expanded

2. International Journals in other databases (weight = 0.75)

International journals are in other international databases, apart from ISI databases. Those databases are as follows:

SCOPUS

CA Search*

Inspec*

J-stage

PsycINFO*

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts*

BIOSIS

EiCompendex*

MEDLINE

ERIC

Sociological Abstracts*

The SIIT Library is unable to access those databases.

Remarks:

1. Information or evidence to prove that international journals are still indexed in those above databases must be required.

2. International journals indexed in those databases must be classified as Journals, not Book series or Conference Proceedings.

3. National Journal (weight = 0.5)

National journals fulfill the criteria of Thai-Journal Citation Index Centre (TCI). According to the Announcement of Thai-Journal Index Centre (TCI) on quality assessment of journals on science and technology, and social sciences, only journals that fall into Group 1 are classified as national journals with weight of 0.5. Please find list of journals that are in Group 1 as follows:

Journals Group 1 in fields of science and technology
